

On Wednesday, November 5th, 2008 anytime between 9:00am – 6:00pm at The Schultz Center all teachers, staff, administrators and other stakeholders will have an opportunity to review, talk to publishers, and submit comments on all the 6-12 Literature and Language Arts and the K-12 ESOL instructional materials (textbooks and ancillaries) that are currently being considered for adoption by Duval County Public Schools.

Publishers will be on site to answer any of your questions, demonstrate their materials, and distribute information and other items concerning their programs being considered for adoption.

This is an excellent opportunity for all stakeholders to have input into the Literature, Language Arts and ESOL instructional materials that will be used in the District for the next 6 years!

We hope you will afford all your teachers and administrators this opportunity on a teacher training early dismissal day to review the materials, discuss with the publishers, and have input into a very important process that affects the education of all our students!
